

RE: Net Neutrality

Please decide in favor of individual humans when pressed with questions related to our network connections and access to the web. Sure, corporations are made (eventually) of individual humans, but corporate should never trump personal freedoms.

I am against granting the privilege of packet shaping or other methods of tiered access being granted to ISPs, and I hope you see fit to protect the consumer, not the corporation.