

water on the brain - online games were my therapy

i went from running 4 departments at a tv station at 23 to sleeping 20 hours a day at 34 - with 80% too much water on the brain (hydrocephalus). I had a V-P shunt installed, but the damage had been done to my soggy frontal lobe - no short term memory or organizational skills.

so i sat down to play yahoo literati (it's like scrabble) and so over the next 5 months reprogrammed my brain (reassigned functions). today i am doing web design and flash animation, all self-taught.

there's no way could i have found my way, without going my own way, ok? net freedom forever.
