

Censor This

Without net neutrality large companies would be like our censorship, instead of having the government block unwanted sites and topics, like in china, these corporations would block the unwanted sites by making their bandwidth very very small, not quite banning, but almost, and they would begin to monopolize the internet which now is known as a great place for free speech.

I hope you, the FCC, don't get rid of our freedom of the internet, and our freedom from monopolies.
