

I fully support the merger. Clearly competition exists for my entertainment dollars with IPOD or MP3 players, cell phones with Internet capabilities and AM/FM Radio and other internet devices. The government position of this being a monopoly is wrong. If this proposed company prices increase people will simple not use the product. This is for entertainment not a need. Cell phone companies like At&t and Cingular can merge and limit my choices and nothing is done. They are more of a need than a radio service. This is just another example of old government not understanding technology.
