Dear FCC:

I support the Sirius and XM merger since it would provide me with more channels as well as better competition with all the new music devices that are going out on the market. These two companies have to compete with internet radio, terrestrial radio, the huge mp3 player market with just got bigger with the recent launch of the iPhone. With some many competitors this merger is going to make Sirius and XM a monopoly. They would still have to compete for the market share of the music industry. However, what this merger would do is make these two companies focus in improving their customers service. I support the merger of the two and hope you as well see the benefits instead of drawback to this merger.

Sincerely,

Patrick Michalowski
