

If we allow a merger to create a monopoly with Sirius and XM, where will it end?
The laws preventing monopolies were created with the the public's interest in mind, and by allowing these two companies to join forces, it would go against our nation's belief system.

Separate media outlets offer a range of public opinions, views, and programming options. The combination of these corporations would open Pandora's Box into a whole world of troubles for not just radio, but all major corporations.

Jessica Price