

Internet Too Successful: Must Be Changed

Due to the overwhelming and unprecedented success of net neutrality we must change it because somehow someway someday this success change despite there being no evidence of this and also we have no evidence of what our changes may bring but despite the overwhelming success of the prior system we prefer to change it

Is this what you're trying to say?