

It's not broke, so don't fix it

I feel like the very fabric of our country is in great peril. We can no longer trust our "news" to give us honest insight of the days events; witness how the news never did get around to letting the voters know that the swift boat ads were not true.

Free speech is VITAL to our environment. I can speak freely on the net, and I can find others who speak freely.

Seems to me it's working quite well as it is. Why on earth would anyone risk changing that, unless, of course, they wished to stifle free speech.
