

A free internet is patriotic

Keeping the internet free ensures a continuous flow of free speech that America has not ever experienced. All citizens with internet access can opine, inform and collaborate with others nationwide and worldwide.

Individuals can join others for research, family histories and locating old friends.

Families keep in touch.

The web is one of those inventions that really works for the users.

If the free web is restricted or eliminated, it will become just another useless entertainment medium like television.
