

FCC: Do the Right (not as in wing) and Fair Thing

How interesting that the FCC needs to launch a public inquiry regarding the protection of Net Neutrality! Goodness gracious, FCC ... Is your inquiry rhetorical? Just in case you are serious, I shall give you my answer.

Certainly the neutrality of the net should be protected! It is one of the few remaining freedoms I, a proud citizen, like to believe exists in this badly damaged country I love. How dare you consider allowing the phone and cable companies (and those to whom they are beholden) dictate what sites I can or can not access or create.

Act for the true interest of this United States and all its citizens and protect Net Neutrality.

Sincerely,
Paula Robinson
