

This could kill gaming as we know it

If the internet becomes so restricted that big businesses like Comcast, Verizon, etc... absolutely OWN the internet, big time multiplayer games, like StarCraft, Diablo, WarCraft, etc... will be killed! The producers of these big time games will be killed also! Sure, there are single-player options for all these games but it's a lot less fun. Most gamers like myself buy games in order to play multiplayer games, if the internet is taken over by big corporations these companys like Blizzard Entertainment could go out of business!
