

Telcos choose/charge for "Right to Speak" .. NEVER

The internet is simply electronic air ...

By allowing Telcos/anyone to control access to the electronic air you simply create a controlled oligopoly over access to the free speech ... distorting free speech and the "marketplace of free ideas"

In an era when broadcasting and print media are controlled by similar distorting, censoring, and concentrating oligopolies, we hardly need to convert the internet to same model. There are NO technical limits that require it ...

Net Neutrality is essential to free speech, equal opportunity and economic innovation in America ...
