

You have NO RIGHT

I have left the sample message intact as it sums up what is wrong with this system, but I wanted to add my own bit. I'm a small hosting provider that gives webspace and help to independent projects related to gaming and open source, and it's BECAUSE of net neutrality that I know these projects have just as much a chance as any other. How DARE you try to limit the exposure to websites I host or maintain because I won't pony up a dime to get "better coverage". It's bullshit like this that makes america worse and worse in the eyes of the world. You think anyone else is interested in this? Hell no! Why? Because it makes no sense! The internet is a free place for the free exchange of ideas. For a country that seems to tout "Freedom" we sure are fucking it up on a daily basis, and this will ram the rod right to the end.

Again I say, how dare you?!

-Mike

Net Neutrality is essential to free speech, equal opportunity and economic innovation in America. Since the FCC removed this basic protection in 2005, the top executives of phone and cable companies have stated their intention to become the Internet's gatekeepers and to discriminate against Web sites that don't pay their added tolls.

This fundamental change would end the open Internet as we know it. It would damage my ability to connect with others, share information and participate in our 21st century democracy and economy. The FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination.