

I believe there should be competition in Radio; I don't believe there needs to be competition in delivery. Our choices now are Internet Radio, Terrestrial Radio, & Satellite Radio. As long as the RIAA doesn't destroy internet radio, and Clear Channel doesn't destroy terrestrial radio, there is plenty of choice. I'm a Sirius listener, and hate that I can't get all programs and that some radio hosts/voices switch to the highest paying vendor on a whim. Am I expected to keep buying satellite radios every time a host switches delivery methods?
