

Net Neutrality IS the net

Do not give up the last vestige of America's doubtful survival value to the last bunch of large, greedy corporations just so they can make "fair" profits.

It is not up to government to assure that companies make any kind of profits at all. That is, why not let each and every outdated company go broke?

Sure there will some disorder, but the whole economy will be healthier.

The FCC should be representing all the people, not especially the specialists.
