

Last bastion of honest news

I do not bother with the network news anymore. The silly fluff they report in lieu of critical news is why I have turned my attention to the internet. Granted there is junk on the net, but there is a lot of important information. Our democracy is dependent on informed citizenry. If you take the neutrality away the corporations will dominate.