

NO CORPORATE OWNERSHIP OF THE INTERNET

With corporate and government control of global media, presenting what THEY want us to believe is news and entertainment and shoving it down our throats and up our asses, do we really want these same idiots controlling our access to human knowledge? I mean it's one thing when THEY produce the shit and toss it out to us to consume or not.

But now they want to control OUR means of connecting to each other as individuals. No doubt so that at every fucking turn, at every punctuation mark or mouse click they can tell us what we SHOULD know. Go here and see what idiot actress said about ... Go there and see what fucking stupid toy you can buy while watching a preview of the next $100 million waste of photons Hollywood will shit out.

Entire peoples are being exterminated on our planet and all they can talk about is a whiney little slut's 7 days in jail, or fatass Rosie and Combover Donald.

These people have too much influence on the content of the internet as it is. What fucking moron thinks giving them PHYSICAL CONTROL over access to it is somehow a good thing? Remember the USSR? The govt controlled all access to information and knowledge and their version of history. Remember Vietnam? Cambodia? Remember what China is doing now? Filtering the Internet so people get THEIR version of truth? Remember Osama Mutherfucking Bin Laden? The Taliban? All have their own definition of "knowledge."

Verizon, ATT, Disney, Time Warner, Microsoft. They fucking pollute our intellect at every chance. Now they want to let these people control even that - "chance" - by removing it from the equation. Instead they'll make sure that no matter what you're doing online, looking up a store's hours or researching Near Earth Objects, you'll have to sit through a Windows Media file of the preview to Shrek 17.

Fuck them.
