RESPONSE OF DISCOVERY HOLDING COMPANY
(INFORMATION PROVIDED BY DISCOVERY COMMUNICATIONS LLC)

Discovery Employees Biographies

John S. Hendricks

John S. Hendricks is the founder and chairman of Discovery Communications, the number-one nonfiction media company. Hendricks created the Discovery Channel in 1982 as the first cable network in the United States designed to provide high quality documentary programming enabling people to explore their world and satisfy their curiosity.

Hendricks has been the driving force behind Discovery's dramatic growth including the expansion of Discovery Communications from its core property, the Discovery Channel, to current global operations in more than 170 countries and territories with over 1.5 billion total subscribers. Under Hendricks' leadership, Discovery's stable of networks now encompass over 100 networks of distinctive programming representing 29 entertainment brands including TLC, Animal Planet, Discovery Health Channel and Discovery Kids. Discovery's other properties include Discovery Education and Discovery Commerce, which operates more than 100 Discovery Channel Stores.

As one of the leading visionaries in the media industry, Hendricks has been honored with a Primetime Emmy Award and the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences highest honor, the Governors Award, for conceiving the TLC series, Great Books. Hendricks was the first corporate leader to receive the National Education Association's Friend of Education award for "innovations in education and technology and greatly expanding educational opportunity for America's schoolchildren." In 2003, Hendricks was inducted into the Cable Center Hall of Fame, which "honors men and women whose achievements have provided service to the cable industry and contributed significantly to cable's growth and development and to the people, communities, and organizations served by cable TV."

Hendricks serves on the board of directors of a number of non-profit organizations including the United States Olympic Committee, the American Film Institute, and the James Madison Council of the Library of Congress. Hendricks also serves on the Advisory Board of Lowell Observatory and the University of Maryland College Park Foundation Board of Trustees.

Before 1982, Hendricks founded and served as president of the American Association of University Consultants (AAUC), a private consulting organization he founded which specialized in television distribution, marketing and fundraising for educational programs and services. Hendricks holds a B.A. in History (magna cum laude, 1973) and an honorary doctorate (1991) from the University of Alabama, Huntsville.

David Zaslav¹

David Zaslav is the President and Chief Executive Officer. Zaslav sets the strategy and oversees the operations of the world's leading nonfiction media company, with over 100 TV networks reaching more than 1.5 billion cumulative subscribers, new-media businesses that spread knowledge to schools and homes, and retail stores that showcase unique Discovery brands.

Zaslav joined Discovery in January 2007 after a distinguished career at NBC Universal, where he built the distribution base and operations of a formidable array of cable and new-media operations.

As president of NBC Universal's Cable and Domestic TV and New Media Distribution, Zaslav oversaw content distribution to all forms of TV, led negotiations for cable and satellite carriage of NBC Universal networks, and forged innovative new-media partnerships, including a pioneering video-on-demand deal with the leading cable operator, Comcast. Zaslav also brought films and TV shows to consumers through new paths including the Web, cell phones and other wireless devices.

Zaslav joined NBC in 1989 and was instrumental in developing and launching CNBC that same year. He played a key role in creating MSNBC in 1996. His responsibilities extended to Bravo, CNBC World, SCI FI, ShopNBC, Sleuth, Telemundo, Telemundo Puerto Rico, mun2, Trio, Universal HD, USA Network, NBC Weather Plus and the Olympics on cable.

Zaslav also oversaw NBC Universal's interests in A&E, The History Channel, The Biography Channel, National Geographic International, the Sundance Channel and TiVo.

Zaslav serves on the boards of the National Cable & Telecommunications Association, the National Association of Television Program Executives, Cable Positive, The Cable Center, the Museum of Television and Radio, the Center for Communication, and TiVo. He was an adjunct professor at Fordham University, where he created and taught a graduate-level course on the business of cable television.

Before joining NBC, Zaslav was a corporate/entertainment attorney with the New York firm of LeBouef, Lamb, Leiby & MacRae. He graduated with honors from Boston University School of Law. He is married and has three children.

Mark Hollinger

Mark Hollinger is the President, Global Business and Operations. Hollinger oversees Discovery's international businesses, its retail stores and its Corporate Operations departments including corporate communications, corporate marketing and research, administration, information technology and media services. He is also Discovery's General Counsel, and in that role supervises the company's legal, business affairs, production management, government affairs and standards and practices departments.

From 2003 to 2007, Hollinger was senior executive vice president, corporate operations and general counsel.

Hollinger joined Discovery in 1991 as vice president and deputy general counsel. In 1994, he was named acting general manager for Discovery Channel Asia. Based in Hong Kong, he was responsible for overseeing and coordinating all activities related to the operation and launch of Discovery Channel Asia. In 1995, shortly after his return from Asia, Hollinger was appointed vice president, international business development in addition to his role as vice president, deputy general counsel. He became Discovery's general counsel in 1996. He was given responsibility for Discovery's business affairs group in 1996 and for the production management department in 1999. He was named EVP, Corporate Operations in 2001.

Before joining Discovery, Hollinger was a senior associate in the entertainment department of the law firm Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison in New York City. He also lectured on entertainment law at Columbia Law School.

Hollinger received his J.D. from Yale Law School and holds a B.A. degree (summa cum laude) in history and political science from Colgate University.

Roger Millay²

Roger Millay is the Senior Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officers. Millay is responsible for the global financial functions and strategies of Discovery Communications. He directs all accounting, treasury, budgeting, audit and tax activities, and is a key advisor on the overall strategic direction of the company.

Millay previously served as senior vice president and chief financial officer of Airgas, Inc., the largest distributor of industrial, medical, and specialty gases and the third largest distributor of safety supplies in the United States. He was named Senior Financial Officer of the Year by Chemical Week.

Earlier, Millay was senior vice president and chief financial officer at Transport International Pool, a leasing and equipment management division of General Electric Capital Corporation. During his 12-year career at GE, Millay served in CFO roles at GE Capital Mexico and Colony Advisors, Inc., a GE Capital joint venture. Before joining GE in 1987, he held positions at Citicorp and Arthur Young & Company.

Millay received a M.S. in accounting from Georgetown University's school of business in 1980 and a B.A. in English literature from the University of Virginia in 1979.

Steve Sidel

Steve Sidel is the president of Discovery Education, a post to which he was named in 2006. Previously, Sidel was executive vice president of Discovery Education and before that he served as senior vice president, deputy general counsel and vice president, legal affairs. He joined Discovery Communications in 1997 as director, legal affairs.

Ben Teicher

Ben Teicher is chief financial officer for Animal Planet & Discovery Kids Media, a post to which he was named in June 2007. Previously, he served as senior vice president and chief financial officer for Discovery Communications' Education Division for three years. He remains an officer and director of some of the Education related entities.

Doug Coblens

Doug Coblens is chief operating officer at Discovery Channel and The Science Channel, a post to which he was named in 2007. Previously, Coblens was executive vice president for legal and business affairs. He joined Discovery in 1998 as vice president for legal affairs.

Clark Bunting II

Clark Bunting II is the President of US Networks Production for Discovery Studios.

Henry Martinez

Henry Martinez is the Executive Vice President/Managing Director-Latin America/Iberia.
