

Stop trying to limit us

I hear more and more these days about ISP's blocking certain services for their subscribers, such as Comcast: The Tiered internet, where they are now blocking people from seeding files on uTorrent - I know this is associated with a lot of pirating, but its also used for much good! I was download Ubuntu at over 1mb/s before 4 people from a Comcast line got cut off, now it's going to take me about 3 weeks to download disk one.

People are going to find ways around this anyway, wither it be switching away from Comcast and finding a different internet solution, or just covering their tracks with programs that are already out there to hide their doings from their ISP. Not only is it now becoming an invasion of privacy, but they're trying to stop us from sharing our own material with the world!!! I myself am a musician, and I seed my music via webpages all over the world, if my ISP starts blocking me off - I'll never be heard.
