

Down with Comcast!

Please people don't get so mad at these extremely confused guys at Comcast. Simply, tell everybody you know, everybody you can talk too, send e-mails to all your contacts, spam the m.fu...s and lets spread the word!! Simply let all of us switch providers NOW and show Comcast and others that for sure are watching who really decide here. We are the customers and we have the power!

I don't even live in North America but these kind of trends have to be cut from the start!

For me is as if Comcast is messing with something they would regret for a long time. Think about it, besides being a kind of censorship where it will end..? Why they don't forbid all weapon development and manufacture and close the weapon production because you can kill with them? Because you can protect yourself and others with them too...So if they allow the weapon industry to continue...so they have to allow people, companies and protocols that are for the best of human kind (not like weapons by the way) to continue. They are for christ sake only "providers" and have no business messing around with what protocols people use nor what kind of underwear we use! I might be far out but as another analogy I would say that it is almost as if a provider of ELECTRICITY would tell you and me what or even which brands we can or can't plug into their net.

Customers of America and the world, wake up before you will have providers telling you what, when, how and why you should use or not use the internet!

Thanks and remember: Customers and users RULE!!!
