

Please help protect local and diverse radio by adopting the proposal described in MM Docket No. 95-31 to limit the number of applications for the NCE FM New Station Applications in the October 2007 filing window.

By limiting the number of applications from any single entity, the FCC will protect local voices and make sure these new stations serve local communities. The Commission's mandate to foster localism and diversity will be advanced by encouraging wider pool of local applicants.

I strongly urge you to adopt the proposal described in MM Docket No. 95-31 to limit any single entity to 10 applications for the new noncommercial licenses.

I live in Stamford, Conn., a city and an area that you would think would have a wide array of local coverage. After all the media consoladation (massive conglomerates) there is no real choice of local news and information. It is criminal that so few can control all.

While I think that low power stations can help, the real answer is getting OUR air waves back.
