

We Demand Equal Access

Net Neutrality is mortally vital to my families livelihood. I own a small business in Nashville doing web design and other advertising and marketing. Most of my clients are small businesses, bands, ministries and non-profits that would not be able to afford access as the telecommunications companies would have it. Without my customers, I would have no work, I would be forced to get a job with a retail store that would not pay enough for my family. Trust me, I've tried. The internet is how I learned to be a businessman and not just an out of work graphic designer/musician, working at Blockbuster and Dominos to try to pay the bills. Stand up! Contact all your local and national representatives like I did and demand that Congress enact laws to enforce Net Neutrality! Fight the man! Aaron Scantlen - Mohawk Designs
