

I am outrage because, the greatest country in the world and democracy which is founded on freedom, is slowly be eroded by big media companies. If the proposed rule to change media ownership sways to the big media it be a big because there be less objective voices and different voices coming out of the media for public consumption. Fewer people will own the media outlets and will have loopholes available to them to own more media. The first amendment is slowing eroding to a few owners of that media that control the flow of information the public sees and listens to a few and sacrifices the many in democratic society. More free press, more free speech, more regulation, and more pubic opinion and less pre-package news and mind-less entertainment. More oppportunity for knowledge, more education, more self awareness of this great country which tells world the we are free to choose. Those choices are becoming less and will become less if the proposed rule is approved.

Respectfully,
