

I have used older tv's most of my life due to low income. As a senior I cannot afford expensive cable (doesn't work in storms) nor can I afford new tv's. We were able to use low cost portable tv's during recent hurricanes. These will no longer work. I understand digital doesn't work on the broken signals that occur during a storm or on weak signals. Also converters don't run on batteries. Again the Poor are left stranded, all in the guise of progress. This only forces people to waste money on new tv's or do without.
