

I actually believe the merger between Sirius and XM satellite radio would be both good for the public at larger and good for competition. At the present time, satellite radio only comprises maybe 5% or so of the radio/audio market.

As an owner of a subscription of Sirius satellite radio I am frustrated I can only get some of the sports and talk shows I listen to. It would be nice if I could pick and choose, just as the merger would provide.

I always have free radio if I find satellite radio is not to my like, but just the opposite has happened in the past 2 years. I love satellite radio.

Please allow the merger to pass to help consumers like me have easier and less expensive access to better quality radio.

Thanks for listening to my request.

Stefan Boyland