General Comment: We live in a subdivision of 92 homes with common land. We have an association board of directors. This year the board signed another 2-year agreement with our local cable company, Brighthouse, for bulk billing without even polling the neighborhood. 47 homes out of the 92 did not want this bulk billing arrangement. Yet each home pays $400 out of our yearly dues for Brighthouse. Many people have opted for other cable providers. We have Verizon because of better quality in phone, internet and cable TV. I do not think that I should have to pay $400 per year for something I don't use. This board, made up of a few neighbors, are telling use what services we can use in our own home. This is just not right!
