

Hello, my name is Aaron Bass, I have long been an supporter of open source and new technologies, and I want my opinion on Net Neutrality to be heard quite loudly...

I am against the actions of Comcast and other corporations for opposing Net Neutrality. To control the internet would be an suffering to creativity, competition, and freedom to explore our minds with new experiences. Why would companies now want to control the way we use the internet when they could have did this measure when the internet was getting on it's feet? Because these companies did not have the power and resources to do that at the time, they are much more in control of things (in their eyes) now that they had used the allowance to provide such services, and now want to keep that power to themselves and give it out at their discretion.

If Net Neutrality is violated, then I will do whatever is necessary in court to oppose Comcast and other anti-neutrality supporters. I hope that you punish Comcast for their ways

Thank you for your time.
