

Comcast's blatant and deceptive blocking of peer-to-peer communications is exactly the problem millions of Americans have warned would occur without Net Neutrality protections.

The FCC must take serious and immediate action to put an abrupt end to this harmful practice and prevent other Internet service providers from following Comcast's example of discriminating against the free flow of online information.

The Internet is a vital engine for economic growth, civic participation and free speech. We simply can't allow corporate gatekeepers to smother these democratic communications by discriminating against new technologies, secretly interfering with Internet traffic and stifling innovation.

Comcast's discrimination against the free flow of online information is divisive, manipulative, and aimed to serve their particular interests over the rights of citizens. Hence, their actions are immoral and justifiably illegal. The FCC should take swift and solid action to prevent Comcast's discriminatory actions and permit the continued unobstructed free flow of online information.
