

Companies that engage in censorship based on political affiliation with the backing of the government amounts to government-sponsored fascism on the side of business interests. I don't understand why this is even up for discussion.