Re: FCC - Record for 07-51

I have been told that the FCC may change the way Private Cable Operators (PCOs) operate. If the changes under consideration might cause the PCOs hardship, it would be a mistake. I know this because services to our 357-unit condominium are supplied by a PCO. I am the Board President, and was very active in reviewing our options, as well as a subscriber. If PCOs were not in business our options for television providers become limited, and that is not good. Having reviewed all of our options, when first choosing a provider, our PCO offered the best value and lowest cost for service, as well. Many of my neighbors feel the same way. Of course, no one is perfect, but we agree that this company takes great efforts to do a good job and is consistent in the good service they provide.

Sincerely,

Dan Coyne
