

Dear Sirs:

I understand the FCC is working on telling Christian Radio stations that they have to change their programming. This is totally unfair! The government should not be making Christian radio take programming advice from people whose values are at odds with the Gospel! We Christians have the right to have our beliefs and should not have to take on counter beliefs. The radio has buttons to change stations or turn off if someone doesn't believe our values.

Christians have had their values silenced in government, schools and the public taking God out of everything. Please leave our freedom of speech alone. Why should atheists, gays, abortionists and others have a say in what we believe. It's just like a church they can join or walk away, so turn the radio to another station if they don't want to listen or agree.

Why is it that freedom of speech and religion only apply to a few select who are against religion? Please keep our rights protected! Christian radio stations should be allowed to air with donations and not have to air ads by no Christians. Christian radio should be allowed to keep their location of station as is and be able to serve many areas from one location.

Sincerely

Jane Lapp
