

K-Love and other Christian Radio stations are an important part of the life of this country. Not only do they play music that is positive, uplifting, and encouraging in a day when most radio waves are filled with filth, depressing, or just plain discouraging things.

1. Requiring any group to take advice from an area's population that is not interested in what that group stands for is unfair. It would be like asking the NRA to take advice from people who support gun control. It doesn't make sense.

2. I thought we lived in a nation that allowed free speech. If a radio station is required to broadcast programming that appeals to a "cross-section" of the population that limits free speech. Not only does it limit free speech, it is ridiculous. Would a sports radio station have to start a knitting show to make sure that the "cross-section" of the population was properly represented?

3. A radio station should be governed, but it is not right to force public access on stations that don't agree with the views presented. It would be like having a hunting safety tip on a PETA station. It doesn't work, doesn't make sense and it shouldn't happen.

4. Maybe I am just difficult, but it doesn't make sense to me to force anyone to make it more difficult to run a radio station. Especially when talking about K-Love that is on because listeners support it. It isn't on the air of it's own accord or on the air to annoy bother or befuddle. It is on the air because people support it. Why pass laws or bills that would potentially damage such a station that is obviously wanted and needed, is beyond me. Please don't let these rules pass.
