

I would first like to tell you how much my family enjoys the programming KLOVE (105.3 FM in Jonesboro) currently airs. We love it enough to put our money where our mouth is and sponsor it cheerfully every month. While I appreciate that our society is diverse, it is wonderful to have a station that is so family oriented and safe for my children to listen to at any time. Some people may not agree with the programming of this station, just as I don't agree with the programming of other stations in our area and around the country. But it is their choice to listen to the stations that most follow their views, as it is my choice to do the same. I disagree with the new guidelines I have read about as I fear this would discourage the diversity that makes current radio programming great. By supporting the stations' advertising partners, or in KLOVE's case, supporting them directly, listeners voice their feelings about a station's content. There is no need for outside advisory panels to be involved unless one just wants to setup yet another needless bureaucracy.
