

I am a loyal listener to KLOVE radio, which I support with a monthly pledge. I do this because I believe in the format and content that they offer. I am distressed that my rights to listen to a christian radio will be subjected to government oversight. This is quite ironic considering the amount of trash (ie.porn) that comes across the internet, that can't be outlawed because of the constitution. Why should my rights be violated because someone who can ( and has the right)to change a radio station dial might be offended if they should hear about God or praying on a radio station I support and is not supported by taxes. NO! NO! NO!

Christians have the same rights as others in the USA.
