

Dear FCC: I commend the five FCC Chairmen for taking this bold step in approving the SIRI/XM merger. To me at least, the FCC action proves that it acted in the best interest of the consumer. It is evident that those in opposition held no punches. A number of paid politicians spoke out against the deal for selfish reasons thus acting contrary to their sworn duty to act in public's best interest.

Obviously, I write this congratulatory note to FCC, in anticipation of the outcome of their pending decision, but not based on any inside information.
