

We listen to KLOVE at work and it has been a blessing to all of us. Not only is it soothing music to work with, but also the message it carries has power in it. Not all of my employees are christian but they like the station too. KLOVE plays music that helps the soul spiritually with a constructing message that tells us how much the Lord loves us. In my personal opinion KLOVE is doing a great good to people, so I don't see why give them a burden of greater expense to the station. FCC wants to give them more regulations, but why bother a station that its purpose is to carry the word of God throughout the world and not caring for lucrative purposes? I do ask you to consider your decision and let KLOVE minister our lives with their powerful message that has not only helped, but changed lives by GOd.
