

Your new rules would do much more harm than good and be too expensive on top of that. Please let the marketplace determine which station is relevant to its' local. If I want to hear local information; I know which station to listen to.

Please don't let someone else decide for me what I should hear.

Many programs or stations offend me right now. I don't listen to them and they can swim or sink.

Again, within the realm of decency let the people decide how important local interest is to them.

If you want to set up and pay for one local interest station like a PBS station, have at it. That would be a good inclusive solution for everybody. It already had the name "public broadcasting".

Thanks,

Bob
