

The FCC can not make any rule that violates the constitutional right of free speech currently enjoyed by Christian broadcasters. To require a Christian station to act on input from a community advisory board would result in secular or even anti-Christian content being aired by these stations. Listeners have the right to change the dial. This is how we impact the managements idea of what is appropriate for their market. We do or do not support their advertisers, or send contributions to those we agree with.

This proposed rule change is bad all the way around. I would love to take the crass and profane programs off the secular stations. I vote with my tuner. I do not listen to programing I find objectionable.
