

To Whomever It May Concern,

I heard recently about new regulations the FCC is considering that could have a negative impact on Christian radio stations. I listen to Air1 radio on a daily basis, and would like to ensure it stays on the air in my area. It has increased my faith and provides a station that I know is safe for my kids to listen to.

I strongly oppose these proposed regulations. There is no need for more regulation through community advisory boards or any regulation that would increase the costs of running a radio station. A station should have free choice in what it decides to air, just as its listeners have free choice to listen to it or not. Please consider my point of view.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tatyana Martsenyuk
