

Your new proposals would severely damage the ability of Christian radio stations to stay on the air, essentially acting like a censor against Christian music. I know for a fact that Christian radio allows people to be closer to their God, contributing to the peace they have, which helps them to be productive functional members of society. Without the constant reminder of God's love that these radio stations provide, depression and chaos prevail in these people's lives. Without Christian radio, specifically KLOVE, I would be a much angrier person. I know that waking up to KLOVE allows me to start the day off on the right foot; without it I would be mad at the world. Please reconsider your proposal and take into consideration all parties affected. Do not indirectly censor Christian radio through your proposal by making it financially impossible for these stations to stay on the air. Thank you.
