

This seems to be a clear violation of freedom of speech. How can you be assured that people will tune in to hear the "disclaimer" prior to hearing the opposing view? Christianity is already known as the "alternative lifestyle", this would just push it further in that direction. It's a shame since our country was supposedly founded based on our belief in religious freedom.