

I want to voice my opposition to this new regulation. I feel strongly that is unnecessary as there are many types of station profiles. You already have choice of opinions. All this does is offer confusion to the listener that has chosen, by freedom of choice, not to take in anything that they do not agree with. The success of talk radio is a proven method of bantering opinions. I am a conservative listener that wants to choose the number on the dial and get the station that offers only what I choose. Making anything mandatory to stations, I feel, makes the foundation for listeners weak. Why would I want both issues when I'm only interested in one? Everyone has their own beliefs, styles, likes that is why there are different stations to fit different people and we like it that way.
