

I am totally against mandating programming for radio stations. That is tampering with my choices. If I want to hear other types of music let ME turn the dial and find it. I like Christian radio just the way it is, it is funded by donations which ought to tell volumes about what the people want. And I don't want it to be compromised. With all the unhealthy, undesirable, down right filth on radio and media, the 2 stations that I know of that are Christian based stations is like a haven in a pig pen. I strongly disagree with changing anything or mandating programming or burdening the donation based stations with extra regulations just to use the airwaves. I do not want my choices to be taken away. Freedom was paid for with a great price, do not discount that, do not throw it out when blood was spilt for it. Honor it and let people turn the dial with 2 little fingers if they don't want to listen. Simple enough.
