

Since this is a free country with the greatest Constitution that has ever been penned, how about letting the free market determine the content of broadcasts?

The last time I looked, radios and TVs still have on/off buttons and tuners. Who is not free to turn the set off, or change the station?

If I wanted the Government to control my thought processes, I would move to one of the Communist or Islamic countries. I don't expect that from the USA.