COMMENTS OF THE BROADCAST INDUSTRY COALITION ON PROPOSED INFORMATION COLLECTION REQUIREMENTS

I. INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY

The undersigned coalition of broadcast station owners and organizations concerned with the provision of high quality local news and informational programming (the “Coalition”), by its attorneys, hereby submits these comments in response to the Commission’s Paperwork Reduction Act Notice regarding the information collection requirements mandated by the above-captioned Enhanced Disclosure Order.<sup>1</sup> The Coalition supports the positions set forth in the Comments of the National Association of Broadcasters (“NAB Comments”) on the PRA Notice, both with respect to Form 355 and to the corollary requirement that television stations post the majority of documents contained in their public inspection files online. As the NAB Comments establish, the Commission radically underestimated the additional burdens associated with compliance (by more than 1000 percent) and overstated the benefits that would accrue from this exponential expansion of the broadcasters' information collection and reporting obligations. Therefore, the Commission should decline to forward the information requirements to the Office of Management and Budget ("OMB") for approval, and these requirements should not be allowed to go into effect.

Several members of the Coalition have experienced directly, and the remainder recognize based on their experience, the inordinate, unreasonable, and undue burden that preparation of the so-called "Standardized Television Disclosure Form" — FCC Form 355 — represents. The hours of painstaking data collection, review, analysis, categorization, and data input broadcasters would be forced to endure should OMB approve Form 355 would produce results that are subjective, inconsistent, obscure, impenetrable and totally inconclusive. As a barometer of a licensee's service to the public, Form 355 fails utterly, yet drains limited resources and imposes thousands of dollars in labor costs most broadcasters can ill-afford.

As described herein and in the NAB Comments, three Coalition stations volunteered to participate in a beta test, based on one week of typical television programming. They recorded the number of personnel hours devoted to information collection and completion of the Form, as well as noting their analytical process, questions and concerns.<sup>2</sup> The results demonstrate decisively that Form 355 neither provides “a consistent format for reporting by all licensees”<sup>3</sup> nor “documents the licensees [sic] efforts to determine the issues facing its community and the public interest programming aired during the preceding three month period in response to such issues.”<sup>4</sup> To the contrary, the results of our beta tests and others documented in the NAB Comments underscore that the Commission’s objectives, as set forth in the PRA Notice, are wholly unmet.

For broadcasters, the prospect of maintaining a Herculean level of effort day in and day out, 365 days per year, to collect and report the information called for by the report is mind-boggling. At a time when the industry is facing unprecedented competitive, regulatory and technological challenges, staffing such an effort with existing personnel will prove out of the question for most stations, many of which are cutting jobs and operating with bare bones budgets.<sup>5</sup> Significantly, in large measure, the data collection and reporting tasks imposed by Form 355 will fall to those who work in local required to respond to questions dealing with the day-to-day programming practices of the station. The Coalition submits, however, that this portion of the Form is unnecessarily duplicative, as broadcasters already are required to file comprehensive ownership information with the Commission.

<sup>4</sup> Id. In fact, as discussed below, the only inquiry the Form makes about issue-responsive programming is in Question 3, where it asks whether the station designed any programming to address the needs of its community and provides space to describe its ascertainment efforts and the programming aired to address ascertained needs. The Commission insists the Form does not re-impose formal ascertainment but “is only asking the licensee whether and how it assessed and addressed the community’s programming needs.” Enhanced Disclosure Order at ¶ 45.

<sup>5</sup> See, e.g., Robert M. McDowell, Commissioner, Federal Communications Commission, Keynote Address at the 2008 Quello Communications Law and Policy Symposium (April 23, 2008), available at http://braunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs\_public/attachmatch/DOC-281772A1.pdf (“Clearly our ‘new media economy’ is a new world for ... broadcasters. So why are policymakers like us at the FCC dusting off decades-old regulations to impose on broadcasters [referring to the Commission’s Enhanced Disclosure Order and its Report on Broadcast Localism and Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in MB Docket No. 04-233] ... precisely at this ‘tipping point’ in history when they can least afford a regulatory disadvantage vis-à-vis unregulated platforms like the Internet?”).

newsrooms, thus diverting precious time and attention away from those undertakings the Commission purports to hold dear—the production of local news and public affairs programming.

The online posting requirement is also burdensome and redundant in many respects, certain of which are not immediately apparent. Although, as the Commission states, many items retained in the file are available on the FCC’s website in publicly-accessible databases, and licensees are permitted to “link” to those sources, such links may prove problematic. In addition, the posting of other portions of the file, such as viewer email, raise significant questions concerning compliance with privacy laws. These factors, along with the necessity of making the site W3C/WAI-compliant, will impose substantial burdens on stations, with little, if any, countervailing benefit to the public.

II. THE COMMISSION GROSSLY UNDERESTIMATES THE BURDEN THE INFORMATION COLLECTION AND REPORTING REQUIREMENTS WOULD IMPOSE ON BROADCASTERS.

Through the newly-adopted Form 355, the Commission requires broadcasters to report quarterly a vast amount of information regarding the station’s programming at an unprecedented level of granularity. The agency maintains that the Form replaces the existing quarterly issues/programs disclosure obligation. For the Commission to characterize its adoption of Form 355 simply as a “revision of a currently approved collection,”<sup>6</sup> however, is at best misleading, and at worst disingenuous. The new reporting requirement substantially, if not wholly, replaces both the information collected and the overarching aim of the former information collection. The result is an exaltation of process over substance.

To provide concrete data and a real world basis for evaluating the burden of completing the Form and the usefulness of the results, several stations licensed to members of the Coalition volunteered to beta test the Form based on one week of programming in April 2008. The test stations included WYTV, an ABC affiliate licensed to Youngstown, Ohio; WTVF, a CBS affiliate licensed to Nashville, Tennessee; and WOWT, an NBC affiliate in Omaha, Nebraska. WYTV has a primary digital stream and two multicast streams – one that carries My Network and the other a weather channel. WTVF has one primary digital stream and does not multicast. WOWT carries, in addition to its primary digital stream, a stream of independent programming.

The results of the tests are discussed below and demonstrate conclusively the inordinate and unreasonable burden associated with completing the Form, particularly in view of the inconsistent, subjective, and therefore marginally useful results produced by the three participating stations despite their good faith compliance efforts.<sup>7</sup> The results provide neither a basis for judging station performance against any known standard nor evidence upon which any defensible comparative analysis among any of the three stations could be conducted. In short, the test results prove only that for a single week of programming, much time and expense—indeed, potentially crippling amounts of time and expense—produced reports of 17, 45, and 255 pages containing data that defies <sup>7</sup> The Form 355 beta test report of WYTV for the week April 4 - 12, 2008 is attached as Appendix A. The WTVF report for the week March 31 – April 6, 2008 is attached as Appendix B. The WOWT report for the week April 1-7, 2008 is attached as Appendix C. analysis.<sup>8</sup> The beta tests demonstrate the unprecedented burden Form 355 will place on broadcasters—a burden which, as the NAB Comments point out, makes the former television logging requirements, once described by the Government Accounting Office as the single largest government encumbrance on business in the United States in terms of burden hours,<sup>9</sup> pale by comparison.

At the beginning of the beta test, each participating station received the same basic explanatory materials, but each station independently took a dramatically different approach toward gathering and reporting the information for the Form. WYTV charged an Executive Assistant with completing the Form. Over the course of a week, she spent nearly 20 hours completing the Form, with help from individuals in the News and Promotions Departments. The WYTV News Director was tasked with selecting individual stories from the local newscasts that he believed included “significant treatment of community issues.” Based on those subjective judgments, the station reported only a fraction of the stories that were broadcast. Notably, because of the choice to report national news as full, intact programs and local news as program segments, the numbers on the report skew heavily in favor of national news.<sup>10</sup> In this regard, as in many others, the WYTV Form 355 report is not a definitive depiction of the station’s

<sup>8</sup> Because Form 355 has not officially been released, pending the outcome of these proceedings, an expandable Word document was created for the beta test stations to use. The length of each report in pages is therefore only illustrative and does not necessarily reflect the results that use of an OMB-approved Form would produce.

<sup>9</sup> Revision of Programming and Commercialization Policies, Ascertainment Requirements, and Program Log Requirements for Commercial Television Stations, 98 FCC 2d 1076, ¶ 69 (1984) (“TV Deregulation Order”) (citing GAO, Federal Paperwork: Its Impact on American Business, pp. 43-44 (1978)).

<sup>10</sup> WYTV’s Form reports 29 hours of national news, but only 176.5 minutes of local news programming, even though the station airs more local news programming, in terms of regularly-scheduled programs per day, than national news programming during a typical week.

overall commitment to serving its community. To generate this 45-page report covering a one-week period, however, WYTV incurred approximately $312.84 in labor costs. Should Form 355 become effective, it is anticipated that the station would generate reports containing 2,340 pages at an annual cost of $16,267.68.<sup>11</sup>

WTVF completed the beta test by reporting all of its programming as full programs rather than as segments. The Program Director and Traffic Department employees were involved in completing the Form. This approach succeeded in highlighting this station's heavy emphasis on local news, with a total of 32.3 hours of local news programming reported per week. This process, however, resulted in the station receiving no recognition whatsoever for the segments of news programming that fall into other categories – such as local civic affairs programming. As a result, the report arguably presents an incomplete or flawed picture of the station's programming performance, notwithstanding the careful, time-consuming effort devoted to its completion. Moreover, reporting programs in their entirety does not eliminate the time-consuming requirement of verifying that each daily or weekly episode has been properly categorized.<sup>12</sup> In order for WTVF to provide the Commission with the estimated 884 pages of information called for over the course of a year, the station's Program Director would require on-going assistance from the Traffic Department, in addition to devoting 156 hours (approximately one month per year) of his own time to formulating the report.

<sup>11</sup> This amount was calculated by multiplying the hourly wage of the individual completing the form by the number of hours spent on the form during one week and then by 52 (weeks) to arrive at the estimated annual cost.

<sup>12</sup> For example, WTVF airs a weekly "Meet the Press"-type program titled "Inside Politics with Pat Nolen" that covers Local Electoral Affairs; however, it occasionally airs a special episode (as it did to celebrate Martin Luther King, Jr.) that would not fit the Local Electoral Affairs definition, thereby requiring the station to list that particular program in another category, or omit it, adding substantially to the burden of completing the Form.

WOWT dedicated extensive resources to its test, providing comprehensive information pertaining to its local news and other programming. Six employees<sup>13</sup> were involved in collecting, analyzing, and inputting information that tracked each local news item separately (not including ordinary weather, sports, or traffic). All “hard” news contained in the local newscasts was deemed relevant for purposes of the report and, by definition, was deemed to provide “substantial treatment of community issues.”<sup>14</sup> In order to provide reliable, accurate data, WOWT analyzed each news segment. Segments dealing with national news were added to the “National News” total.<sup>15</sup> Despite the enormous effort expended to provide pure data, however, the result was a report that reflects total local news programming levels significantly below those the station could claim using a more cursory approach. Moreover, such an effort is backbreaking—amounting to approximately 3,000 hours of time and $64,717 in expense to produce more than 11,700 pages of information.<sup>16</sup>

Necessarily, station personnel invested some time familiarizing themselves with the Form and organizing their approach to the beta test.<sup>17</sup> For the most part, however, the individuals involved had the requisite knowledge to assess what information was required

<sup>15</sup> In contrast to its granular reporting of local news, WOWT reported national news programs provided by its network as full programs. Any other approach was out of the question in the context of the beta test and is probably beyond the reasonable scope of what any station could undertake on an ongoing basis.

<sup>16</sup> WOWT reported the time each employee spent to complete the form, and the associated expense per employee. To arrive at these estimated figures for the year, the totals were multiplied by 52 and rounded to the nearest round number.

and to gather the data. The amount of time necessary to complete Form 355, therefore, will not abate as the result of training; most of the time is spent gathering and reporting the data. If anything, the time logged in the beta tests is likely lower than what actually would be invested, because stations undoubtedly would spend additional hours perfecting reports before submitting them to the FCC.

The beta test results make clear that the Commission's burden analysis is seriously flawed. WOWT spent more time completing the Form for one week's worth of programming than the Commission estimated would be required for an entire quarter. Only WTVF's approach, which provided little overall information, would fit within the agency's time estimate of 2.5-52 hours to prepare a response for the quarter.<sup>18</sup> Thus, the Commission's estimated annual cost for the Form is obviously wildly out of sync with the actual experience of broadcasters involved in the beta test. Even if one averages the cost across the three stations documented herein, the Commission has mandated an expense of $29,602.39<sup>19</sup> per station, per year to comply. Multiplying that amount by the total number of VHF/UHF/Class A stations subject to the Order, the real world cost of compliance for the year totals $68,529,525.13—well above the $11,600,000 estimated annual cost advanced by the Commission in the PRA Notice.<sup>20</sup>

<sup>20</sup> This calculation multiplied the average annual cost from our beta test stations by the total number of stations (2,315) as reported by the Media Bureau in "Broadcast Station Totals as of December 31, 2007" (rel. March 18, 2008), available at http://hraunfoss.fcc.gov/edocs\_public/attachmatch/DOC280836A1.doc.

A. The Commission’s Burden Estimate Fails to Account for a Number of Deficiencies and Other Difficulties Inherent in Form 355.

Form 355’s regulatory requirements extend far beyond those currently in existence. The Form is unclear, it demands the collection of extensive and irrelevant information (certain of which is not readily available) and it will serve only to create public confusion, in contravention of the stated objectives it was “designed” to advance.

First, the Commission is mistaken in stating that “much of the information required for the new standardized Form is already required for the issues/programs list it replaces.”<sup>21</sup> A large percentage of the information to be collected for Form 355 is not called for by the Commission’s rule governing issues/programs reports. Under the agency’s existing regulatory approach, broadcasters are required to compile quarterly a list that reflects the “station’s most significant programming treatment of community issues.” Accordingly, a station must identify issues of importance to its community and the programming it has broadcast responsive to those issues. The list must be placed in the station’s public inspection file, so that viewers have access to this information and may assess whether a licensee is fulfilling its public interest obligations.

Form 355, on the other hand, mandates numerous additional disclosures, including information regarding ownership, payment status for public service announcements (“PSAs”), information concerning “independent” programming and unpaid religious programming, closed captioning percentages, certifications regarding the accessibility of emergency information, and details concerning Local Marketing Agreements and Joint Sales Agreements. Instead of reflecting the noteworthy topics of concern in the station’s community and a representative sampling and discussion of the programming a licensee has aired in response to those issues, Form 355 requires mechanical categorizing and logging of each program or programming segment to provide a “comprehensive list” of the station’s programming. The Commission itself acknowledges that “the standardized Form’s requirement that each relevant program or program segment be listed is a change from the current rule that requires only listing of programs that have provided the ‘most significant treatment’ of community issues during the three-month period.”<sup>22</sup> Obviously, reporting specific data concerning every relevant program or program segment necessitates considerably more effort than describing a representative sample of programming.

Compounding the impact of the expanded information collection is the fact that stations currently do not compile much of the information required in the ordinary course of business—certainly not in the format and with the specificity required for Form 355. For example, while stations typically record the subject matter of PSAs and how often they are broadcast, they generally do not preserve information distinguishing paid and unpaid announcements, which, for the beta testers, greatly complicated the task of answering questions 2(h) and 2(i). Indeed, the stations reported that this was one of the most time consuming sections of the report, because of the difficulty in procuring the information.<sup>23</sup> The requirement to provide the total number of HD programming hours in Question 2(a) is another example: stations that run sporting events in HD often do not record each program’s length because it is inherently unpredictable.

<sup>23</sup> WTVF stated that this section took an “inordinate” amount of time to complete because it required input from the Traffic Department, running an additional report in Wide Orbit to gather the information, and individualized review of each PSA to determine its overall theme.

In order to respond to certain other questions, stations must conduct due diligence to obtain information that is at best tangential to the programming. Section 2(f), for example, compels additional research by stations to determine whether any television network “owns or controls more than a one-third financial interest in the program, acts as the distributor of such program in syndication, or owns the copyright in such program.”<sup>24</sup> Information regarding complex ownership and financial arrangements pertaining to network or syndicated programming, however, is not readily available to local station employees. At the very least, stations and networks will need to collaborate to create a system to provide stations with this information, which introduces an additional layer of expense with little value.

Similarly, Questions 2(b), 2(c), 2(d) and 2(e) require particularized information that will be difficult to obtain. Specifically, the Form requires stations to identify whether the programming reported has been previously broadcast, either on the same station or on another station. While station personnel may readily be able to provide an answer for their station-produced programming, it may prove difficult to obtain this information as it pertains to programs or programming segments that are network originated or independently-produced.<sup>25</sup>

The beta testers’ experiences with Question 4 further illustrate the unnecessary burdens inherent in the Form. Presumably to ensure that a broadcaster has complied with the Commission’s closed captioning rules, Form 355 requires licensees to report the number of hours and percentage of overall programming in certain categories that contained captions, and to list each program for which the station is claiming an exemption from the captioning rules. On its face, this appears to be a straight-forward request. But stations typically do not track closed captioning information in this manner. For example, WOWT reported that it provides closed captioning for 100% of its non-exempt programming on its main programming stream. Consequently, the station need not consider the amount of “pre-rule” and “new” programming it broadcasts; because it captions all of its programming, the station knows it complies with the Commission’s rules. In order to answer question 4(a), however, WOWT must revisit its programming line-up (to determine whether it includes any re-runs from long running shows or classic television shows or specials) and research the original air date for each episode of the programs it aired in syndication during the reporting period. This is simply a waste of time for WOWT, as it would be for most stations.

<sup>25</sup> Further, it is unclear how to approach the question for material obtained from national wires that the station recuts and rewrites. Should this sort of program segment be reported as previously aired even if the station added its own touch to the item?

Question 4(a) requires stations to “list programs that were not captioned due to exemption and to state the basis for the exemption.” For stations or programming streams with revenues under $3 million that are exempt from the closed captioning requirements,<sup>26</sup> (such as WYTV’s secondary digital stream), this question appears to require the station to list its entire programming line-up for the quarter. Again, this exercise produces no additional useful information, nor does the Commission justify the burden of providing the data.

For a single week, our beta test stations each spent between 1.5 and 1.75 hours to answer the closed captioning question alone. Mandating such a time-consuming tally of each type of closed captioned programming provides no useful information, particularly when a station provides closed captioning for 100% of its programming, or when a particular channel is exempt from the requirements. To require such an effort for an utterly useless statistic is absurd. The Commission provides no justification for the collection of this information or the burden it places on respondents.

How a station decides to report its programming—by program or by program segment—dramatically affects the time it takes to complete the Form. WYTV and WOWT, which opted to report program segments, evaluated each and every programming segment to determine whether it dealt with “significant community issues” and where that segment best fit, based on its specific content. WOWT employees indicated that many of the news stories reported could easily fall within several categories in Section 2 of the Form, depending on the story’s angle, the specific information included in the story, and the individuals featured in the package. This ongoing evaluation of each item included on the Form is extremely time intensive.

Of course, this begs the question of whether the significant levels of ambiguity and subjectivity resulting from the flexible and overlapping definitions presented by the Order render Form 355 useless. The beta test reports are replete with examples of stories that could fit in multiple vague programming categories. For example, WTVF aired a report during the beta test titled “American Cancels Flights.” Depending on the angle the reporter pursued for the story and who was interviewed, that item could be appropriately categorized as local or national news, or local civic affairs focused on economic or safety issues. Similarly, WOWT’s “gas tax” story could reasonably be construed as local news, local civic affairs, or even local electoral affairs, depending on the story’s content. The vague categories specified by the Commission in Form 355 make both classification and proper interpretation not just difficult, but virtually impossible.

On the other hand, certain aspects of the Form are exceedingly rigid. For example, the Commission allows reporting of only those PSAs that run from 6 am to 12 pm each day. WTVF, however, airs a significant number of PSAs from 5 am to 6 am, a time period during which it enjoys particularly strong ratings. According to the Form, this programming is not entitled to consideration. The Commission's arbitrary definitions of types of programming<sup>27</sup> also often preclude reporting of relevant and socially-significant material. For example, the Commission's instructions for religious programming state that to receive "credit" for a religious broadcast, the program aired must be either a religious service or a locally-produced program aired at no charge.<sup>28</sup> WOWT regularly airs a locally-produced religious program, but because the Church helps defray a small portion of the cost of the program, the station may not report it.<sup>29</sup>

Accurately answering each of the questions posed by the Commission in Form 355 will require a detailed, nuanced understanding of the many different definitions in play. For instance, an employee filling out the Form could easily mischaracterize a story

<sup>27</sup> The definition of programming for "underserved audiences" is especially arbitrary. The category itself insinuates that broadcasters are not providing service to significant segments of the community, and the Commission provides no guidance as to when an "underserved" audience becomes "served."

<sup>28</sup> For religious broadcasters, separating their programming grid into paid and unpaid programs represents a significant undertaking, and public disclosures about fee payments could jeopardize relationships with program providers. Moreover, Form 355 appears to reflect a value judgment—that the content of unpaid religious programming is preferable to that of paid programming—that is constitutionally suspect. Finally, religious stations are concerned that their programming may not "fit" within the arbitrary categories listed in Form 355, thus implying that these broadcasters failed to give treatment to local issues during any given quarter. By effectively "prescribing" certain types of programming for all stations, Form 355 discriminates against niche broadcasters who, by definition, target their programming to a certain segment of the population.

<sup>29</sup> Similarly, WTVF was barred from reporting a special program on Gospel Music because it was not locally-produced or a religious service.

focused on the presidential race by placing it in the Local Electoral Affairs category, on the theory that the presidential race is important to local viewers or may influence local races, when the instructions clearly limit the category to coverage of state and local politics. Employees also are expected to apply vague terms included within definitions (such as the undefined phrase “prime time”) with little or no guidance.

Because of the lack of clarity in definitions and the array of terms associated with the Form, obtaining the needed level of familiarity and understanding of these questions requires both experience and training for individuals completing the Forms—a non-trivial process that necessarily must take place every time a new employee is asked to participate in compliance efforts. In addition, the employees gathering the data for inclusion on the Form will need to be educated about the various categories, as the information the Commission requests is not standard across all categories of programming. This will impose both a financial and opportunity cost on broadcasters, to say nothing of the potential for erroneous reporting.

In short, the Commission is imposing staggering costs on broadcasters in terms of manpower, time, and money to complete a Form that is inherently flawed.

B. The Commission’s Burden Estimate Does Not Account for Privacy and Technical Issues Related to the Online Public File Requirement.

With respect to the online posting requirement, the Commission traditionally has taken the approach of striking “an appropriate balance between ensuring that the public has reasonable access to each station’s ... public file while minimizing regulatory burdens on licensees.”<sup>30</sup> By requiring stations to post the bulk of their public inspection files on the Internet, however, the Commission completely eviscerates this policy. The agency's mandate imposes significant new burdens on broadcasters in order to provide information already easily available to interested parties. Members of the public enjoy ample access to station files by visiting or, if the main studio is located outside the city of license, calling the main studio. In addition, members of the public have ready access to a wealth of additional information regarding individual stations on the FCC's website.<sup>31</sup> Further, the Commission's rules already mandate significant public notice procedures in a variety of situations to better inform the public of station activities.<sup>32</sup> Placing the public file on station websites as a means of ensuring that the public has access to information about station operations is simply redundant.

The time and expense inherent in placing a station's public inspection file on the web would be significantly more than a one-time setup cost. In particular, the burden to address any privacy implications of posting individual email as part of the correspondence file is both substantial and ongoing, and one which the Commission apparently did not consider in adopting the Enhanced Disclosure requirements. Stations will have two choices. The station may individually inspect, alter, save, and post each and every web communication from audience members, with many of these requiring printing, editing, and re-scanning. This task would be labor intensive and on-going. The station's other option is to work with a software company to develop an individualized solution for station correspondence. Multiple levels of solutions that perform a number of functions could be developed, but at a minimum, such a program likely would scrub personally identifying information and filter messages that contain obscenities. The cost of developing such a solution would be substantial, and a station employee would still be required to maintain control over and monitor the quality of the data posted online.

<sup>31</sup> Links to the Commission's website from station websites are wholly unnecessary at a time when a simple search on any commercial search engine for a station call sign provides multiple results involving FCC information. Further, the public is well aware of the Commission's role in the regulation of broadcasting as well as how to navigate to its website, as demonstrated, for example, by the myriad comments filed with the Commission by members of the general public on a daily basis.

<sup>32</sup> See e.g., 47 C.F.R. §§ 3580(d)-(f) (requiring broadcasters to provide on-air notice of renewal applications, including instruction on how viewers may participate in renewal proceedings). Television stations also are required to inform the public of the existence and location of the station's quarterly children's television reports. Similarly, television stations must notify the public of the existence and location of quarterly reports describing the stations' efforts to educate consumers regarding the transition to digital operations.

The question of whether email posting would need to be retrospective adds another layer to the analysis. While individuals may generally be aware that any correspondence they send to a station becomes part of the public inspection file, their expectation to date has been that correspondence will be kept in a single, physical file housed at the main studio. In a good faith effort to address the privacy expectations of these individuals and to comply with privacy laws, stations likely would have to alert individuals and/or painstakingly redact personal information. These actions to preserve privacy expectations and protect the stations' relationships with viewers would impose additional compliance costs.

Finally, stations would have to spend considerable time and effort to conform their online public files with the World Wide Web Consortium's Web Content Accessibility ("W3C/WAI") Guidelines. The highly technical nature of these guidelines dictates that stations engage professional computer consultants to determine what actions they must take to ensure compliance, again adding to the overall burden imposed by the Order. Stations with less advanced websites may be forced to invest significant amounts to upgrade their software, hardware, and hosting arrangements. Because of these costs, some stations may elect to take down their websites, which often serve as a useful platform to supplement the information viewers receive over the air, thus disserving local communities. Notably, the Commission does not even provide an estimate of the cost to comply with W3C/WAI guidelines.

III. THE PROPOSED INFORMATION COLLECTION WILL HAVE LITTLE PRACTICAL UTILITY.

The Commission's PRA Notice also asks "whether the [proposed collection of] information shall have practical utility."<sup>33</sup> The Coalition submits that the practical value of the information submitted on Form 355 to the Commission or an interested member of the public is virtually nil.

The fundamental problem with the Form's approach to reporting is that it obscures the subject matter and content of a station's programming while simultaneously highlighting meaningless programming categories. For example, Form 355 reports will consist of reams of paper containing entries pertaining to news stories whose only identifying information are titles like "cell phone sleep" or "jules verne docking" or "tb student" rather than discussing the stations' treatment of community issues like health and education. Even if one could ascertain the general topic of the program or segment from the title, the information the Form collects is of dubious significance given the highly subjective nature of how the broadcaster determines where to list a particular program or segment. While the Commission's programming categories are distinguished by vagaries and, in many cases, substantially overlap, the Commission provides little guidance in the Order or Form 355 itself regarding how the report is to be completed.<sup>34</sup> Indeed, the Commission concedes the inherent subjectivity in the categorization process when it states that “the good faith judgment of the broadcaster” will be needed to “determin[e] whether a program falls within these categories.”<sup>35</sup>

Further exacerbating the problem is the Form’s prohibition on listing a program in multiple categories, even though the categories are by no means mutually exclusive. That approach inevitably will lead those examining the contents of the Form to erroneously conclude, for example, that a station aired little or no programming in a given category when in fact the station did broadcast such programming, but made the subjective determination that it “belonged” more appropriately in another category. For instance, one of our beta test stations aired two news stories on April 2nd called “mayor save ecom” and “childcare safety.” Each of these stories was listed by station personnel in the local news category, but easily could have qualified as local civic affairs programming. Therefore, it would not be apparent to those seeking information from Form 355 that each story contained multiple “local” themes.

Given the nature of the information it requests, completion of Form 355 requires broadcasters to make numerous subjective determinations that inevitably will result in misleading data. For example, the Form requires stations to report whether programming has “[b]een broadcast for payment or any sort of consideration to the licensee or any related organization or entity.” One of the stations participating in the beta test ran an on-screen graphic for an advertiser during the weather segment of a regularly-scheduled newscast. Because the station decided to report its news as block programming, this question presented a difficult choice. The station believed it could not answer “No,” because it had received consideration from an advertiser in connection with the weather segment. If it answered “Yes,” the implication to anyone reviewing the Form would be that the entire newscast was “broadcast for payment.” With no means of explaining or qualifying its response, the station was left with a “Hobson’s choice,” knowing that neither answer was wholly accurate, and that a “Yes” response would inevitably lead the reader to an erroneous conclusion.

Contrary to the Commission’s assertions, Form 355 will not better serve the public’s interest in assessing whether a licensee is fulfilling its public interest obligations. Indeed, Form 355 replaces the seasoned and well-accepted concept of issues treatment with an inflexible and uninformative list of the “kinds” of programming the station airs (and one which assumes that the station will categorize its programming in the “right” way). It obscures any assessment of whether stations are connected to their communities and responding to those issues of import to their viewers through their programming decisions.<sup>36</sup> Form 355 will thus be of little utility in assessing whether a licensee is fulfilling its public interest responsibilities. In short, while the Commission suggests that Form 355 was designed to provide a more regularized view of the “public interest programming aired during the preceding three month period,”<sup>37</sup> the Form in fact provides virtually no serviceable information concerning such programming and fails the “practical utility” test set forth in the PRA Notice.

<sup>36</sup> As noted above, only Question 3 addresses this matter. Stations may use this section of the Form to report on their efforts to ascertain community issues and to describe programming aired in response to community needs. In effect, they can provide the Commission with their Issues/Programs reports here. Neither the Enhanced Disclosure Order nor the instructions to Question 3 suggest that this is intended. Indeed, the Order emphasizes that the Form seeks “a comprehensive list of programming in each category” rather than a list of “‘the most significant treatment’ of community issues.” Id. at ¶ 44.

IV. THE PROPOSED INFORMATION COLLECTION IS NOT NECESSARY FOR THE PROPER PERFORMANCE OF THE FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION.

The PRA Notice also requests comments concerning “[w]hether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Commission.”<sup>38</sup> The Coalition submits that not only are the Order’s requirements unnecessary in the context of the agency’s functions, but also flawed as a means to advance the purposes for which they are ostensibly adopted. The Commission claims the Order’s requirements will ensure “accessibility and uniformity”<sup>39</sup> to programming report information and allow the public to “participate more effectively in license renewal proceedings.”<sup>40</sup> Implicit in these statements is the notion that Form 355 will reveal successes or shortcomings in a licensee’s programming performance.<sup>41</sup> Assuming, arguendo, that ensuring uniformity and ease of public participation are proper functions of the Commission, neither Form 355 nor the online public file posting requirement are necessary to achieve those aims.

<sup>41</sup> The adoption of Form 355 is closely linked with the Commission’s proposals concerning localism. In the Matter of Broadcast Localism, Report on Broadcast Localism and Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, FCC 07-218, MB Docket No. 04-233 (rel. Jan. 24, 2008). In that proceeding, the Commission is considering whether to impose a variety of program content regulations, which the Coalition believes raise significant constitutional concerns. While it may not mandate the broadcast of particular content, the list of government-favored programming inherent in Form 355 constitutes regulation by raised eyebrow and most certainly will have a chilling effect on programming decisions.

Far from ensuring uniformity in reporting, Form 355 virtually guarantees inconsistency. While all stations would submit the identically formatted Form 355, the manner in which stations complete the Form, utilizing, as directed by the Commission, their “good faith discretion” in categorizing their programming, will be far from unvarying. As demonstrated above, each of our three beta test stations took a distinctly different approach to completing the Form, each of which was reasonable based on the Commission’s instructions and the Form itself.

While the current issues/programs list embodies the FCC’s underlying requirement of the ascertainment of community needs and the demonstration that a station has met those needs, Form 355 threatens to elevate form over substance in collecting information concerning a licensee’s public interest performance. As the Commission made clear when it abandoned statistical formulas for judging station programming performance more than 20 years ago, “quantity, in and of itself, is not necessarily an accurate measure of the overall responsiveness of a licensee’s programming.”<sup>42</sup> The Commission stated then that licensee performance should be evaluated based on whether the station “responds to the needs of the community.”<sup>43</sup> The focus of Form 355, however, is decidedly not the quality of station programming but the quantity of programming a station airs in a variety of government-prescribed categories.

In fact, Form 355 represents a return to the days when stations reported the percentages of “local” programming, “informational” programming, and other “non-entertainment” programming.<sup>44</sup> When the Commission eliminated these reporting requirements over 20 years ago, it determined that they were “not necessary to the effective discharge of [its] licensing responsibilities.”<sup>45</sup> More specifically, the Commission found that such a regulatory scheme imposed significant and burdensome compliance costs and “potential[ly] conflict[ed] with Congressional policies expressed in . . . the Paperwork Reduction Act.”<sup>46</sup> Today’s Commission has not indicated why such a reversal is required, much less necessary for the agency to perform its functions (in this case, evaluating licensee performance) properly.

In addition to the potential for homogenizing programming, one of the most significant unintended consequences of the adoption of Form 355 will be the diversion of resources from station investments that serve the public, including investments in local programming and improved technology. Burdens of the type associated with these information collection and reporting requirements inevitably result in trade-offs. If stations cannot afford to hire new personnel to perform these functions, they will be forced to draw upon existing resources. Where, for example, newsroom personnel must spend time logging and categorizing hundreds of individual local and national news segments in order to satisfy regulatory mandates, they will have less time to devote to interacting with the community, gathering news, and crafting high-quality, in-depth reporting. Monies diverted to recordkeeping might otherwise be invested in program production, the acquisition of state-of-the art equipment, and/or the digital television transition.

The Enhanced Disclosure Order also fails to explain how Form 355 will aid public participation in the license renewal process. The Commission offers no underlying reason as to why it designated the programming categories it chose for inclusion in Form 355. Moreover, the public was afforded no opportunity whatsoever to comment on the Form. Indeed, it appears that Form 355 was adopted nearly wholesale from a mock-up submitted by the Public Interest, Public Airwaves Coalition in an ex parte filing in 2004.<sup>47</sup> The ex parte notice claims that the Form “is standardized and gathers information the public needs to meaningfully evaluate whether licensees are serving their public interest obligations.”<sup>48</sup>

In reality, however, Form 355 offers no advantage to members of the public seeking to assess the performance of their local television stations. Without meaningful descriptions of programs or program segments, and no means of determining how or why a program or segment was classified as “local news” as opposed to “local civic affairs” or “local electoral affairs,” the information contained in the report offers far less substance to interested members of the public than do issues/programs lists, and the Form effectively serves to impose programming quotas.

Finally, the Commission fails to adequately explain why the online local public file posting requirement is necessary for the proper performance of the Commission’s functions. The requirement is largely redundant. As the agency itself concedes, much of the information that licensees will be required to catalog online already is available on the Internet, particularly through the Commission's own website.<sup>49</sup> Placing the information on the station's website makes it no more accessible. In fact, viewers interested in the performance of the stations in a given market can locate renewal applications, ownership information, licenses, facilities modifications, children's programming reports, and other information concerning those stations in one place on the Commission's website more easily than by visiting the individual website of every station. Other information is made available at the station's main studio under the existing public inspection file requirements. The Coalition submits that if the public file information already is available to a station's viewing audience, the burdens associated with the online posting requirement are both imprudent and unnecessary.

V. CONCLUSION

In sum, the Commission has failed to satisfy the requirements of the PRA. The Commission drastically has underestimated the burdens of the Enhanced Disclosure Order's requirements, while overstating the benefits. As the results of the station beta tests show, completion of Form 355 will be a enormous undertaking, and the burdens it will place on broadcasters will far exceed the agency's estimates. Requiring online posting of station public inspection files will further exacerbate those burdens. Particularly given that the Enhanced Disclosure requirements have no concomitant benefits, the Commission should decline to forward the Order's proposed information collection requirements for OMB approval.

3. MEETING COMMUNITY NEEDS

a)	Did the licensee undertake any efforts to determine the programming needs of its community?	X Yes ___ No
b)	Did the licensee design any programming to address the needs identified in (a), above?	X Yes ___ No
If yes to (a) and/or (b), please describe the steps the licensee took below.
A) WTVF employs several means of determining the programming needs of the community. Among these methods are: WTVF conducts in-depth telephone research every year with more than 400 news viewers to determine what types of segments and news stories are of importance. The study goes into detail on what kinds of investigative pieces we should be doing in the coming year. Most of the feedback we receive is that viewers want to know about safety whether it's staying safe in severe weather or being safe from crime, terrorism, consumer rip-offs, sexual predators, etc. Health and education issues also come up strongly.

WTVF also conducts consumer research twice a year. While the emphasis of this research is more geared towards advertising and sales, many questions are aimed at what types of programs are interested in.

Many members of WTVF's management team and on-air talent serve on various community organization boards and are able to ascertain what is important to these various groups.

WTVF looks at Nielsen data to determine programming needs and trends in the community. For example, if a particular news series or investigative piece spikes in the ratings, we would look to follow those stories up in future newscasts.

From time to time, WTVF does ask general polling questions on our station website asking viewers regarding a myriad of topics. While unscientific, sometimes the answers may point you in a particular direction.

We have created some daily and weekly features in our local newscasts based on some of the issues that we defined in our research as being of high importance to our viewers. These include:

- Crimestoppers. These segments appear twice a week in our 6 PM News and are repeated on the weekends. The segments help to educate viewers on how to avoid being a victim and also feature unsolved local crimes that police are looking for information about.
- Wanted for Arrest. These segments air twice a week in our 6 PM news and feature mug shots of criminals that Metro Police are looking for. One of the segments concentrates specifically on sex offenders.
- Medical News. These air each weekday during the 5 PM news and feature current issues regarding health, particularly the latest medical breakthroughs.
- School Patrol. Every Wednesday during the 6 PM news, this segment looks at current education issues and profiles extraordinary teachers and students.

WTVF operates a 24-hour a day local cable network – NewsChannel 5 Plus available in roughly 500,000 local homes. During the course of the week, we air 18 different local programs – some of them run daily and others once a week. The shows vary in length from 30 minutes to an hour. Because of the local nature of this channel we are able to spend much more time going in-depth on local issues. On this channel we have several shows aimed at particular demographic groups

- “In Your Prime” a 30-minute show airs 5 times a week and targets senior citizens.
- “Issues of Faith” a 30 minute show airs 8 times a week and addresses various religious topics and features local guests of all faiths.
- “Out & About Today” is a partnership with the local GLBT newspaper and features news of interest to the gay & lesbian audience. This 30-minute show airs 5 times a week.
- “Que Pasa Nashville” is a 30-minute show that airs 4 times a week and targets Nashville's growing Hispanic population. The show features political and business leaders in the Hispanic community.
- Medical Monday is an hour-long show in partnership with St. Thomas Hospital that allows viewers to ask questions of medical experts in various fields. The show is live on Mondays at 7 PM but repeats an additional 6 times.

- Urban Outlook is a 30-minute program that focuses on issues impacting Nashville's African-American community. It airs 8 times per week.
- Score on Business is a 30-minute show that airs 4 times each week and provides information to small business owners in the area.
- Retirement report is a 30-minute show airing 4 times a week that targets people who are retired or thinking of retiring with a focus on financial planning

5. CURRENT EMERGENCY INFORMATION

- a) Did the licensee broadcast information about a current emergency  Yes  No that was intended to further the protection of life, health, safety, and property as defined in 47 C.F.R. 79.2?

If yes, list the channels that contained the emergency information and the situation that prompted its use.

On the night of February 5th, a series of tornadoes swept across the Nashville DMA touching down in several communities around our market. We began reporting of potential severe weather within our local newscasts 4-7 PM and then during primetime in the 7-8 PM hour. Once it was determined how impactful the weather would be, we left CBS programming at 8:15 PM that night and stayed on the air until 3 AM the following morning, providing nearly 7 hours of live information. We had local news crews live at the sites of several of the touchdowns and had multiple meteorologists working throughout the night racking the storms and providing warnings. On the morning of the 6th, our coverage continued with 4 hours of live coverage from 4-8 AM looking at the impact of the storm in terms of lost lives and millions of dollars in property damage.

- b) Was the information in 5(a) accessible to persons with disabilities  Yes  No as required in 47 C.F.R. 79.2?

If no, list the current emergency that was not accessible to persons with disabilities and the reason it was not accessible.

Not applicable

6. LOCAL MARKETING AGREEMENTS, JOINT SALES AGREEMENTS, AND SIMILAR AGREEMENTS

The licensee leases or sells three hours or more per day to an entity other than the licensee pursuant to a local marketing agreement or time brokerage agreement, or has entered into a joint sale or similar agreement.  Yes  No

3. MEETING COMMUNITY NEEDS

a)	Did the licensee undertake any efforts to determine the programming needs of its community?	 X  Yes    ___ No
b)	Did the licensee design any programming to address the needs identified in (a), above?	___ Yes  X  No

If yes to (a) and/or (b), please describe the steps the licensee took below.

a) Efforts to Determine Programming Needs of Community

a. How we determine Issues of importance to the Community:

i. Staff and Management serve on innumerable local boards, committees and community initiatives keeping 'in touch' with local issues and community needs.

1. Current Involvements: Millard Public Schools Communication Advisory Board; UNO Women's Walk Committee; Durham Western Heritage Museum's Omaha Sports Hall of Fame Committee; Westside High School Athletic Hall of Fame Committee; Promise 2008 Angel Guardians of Madonna School Committee; Lincoln Children's Museum Board; Child Saving Institute Board; Omaha Public Schools' Career Center Curriculum Advisory Board; American Heart Association; Omaha Children's Museum; Children's Hospital Guild; Omaha Community Playhouse Board; Omaha Entertainment and Arts Award Board; Shriners Hospitals for Children Board; Methodist Hospital Community Service Committee Advisory Board; Westside Community Schools Mentoring Advisory Board; NE Organ Donor Coalition

2. Recent/Past Involvements: Safe Schools/Healthy Students Advisory Committee of Omaha Public Schools; Our Healthy Community Partnership; Leukemia-Lymphoma Society; CHAD; YWCA; NE Commission for National and Community Service; Vairous Rotary Clubs; United Way Optimal Social Functioning Task Force; Omaha Racial Commission; March of Dimes; Omaha Neighborhood Courage Board; P.A.C.T. (Pulling America's Communities Together) Conference Committee

ii. News is 'in touch' with community issues daily via regular reporting assignments and interaction with community leaders, public service officials and the general public – news mantra of "what are people talking about? What is important to the community today?"

iii. Public Affairs Director and General Manager regularly visit with representatives of the community and non-profit organizations hearing the concerns and needs of the community and the organizations that provide programs and services to the community.

iv. Regular receipt of News Releases by News and Public Affairs

- v. "Six on Your Side" special investigators receive input daily from the general public
  - vi. Station's public affairs campaign (Our Heartland Children) utilizes the input and resources of Organizations that support and serve the children of our community
  - vii. Station's public affairs campaign (Health Check) addresses women's health issues utilizing the resources of the local health systems
  - viii. Viewer comments submitted on a regular basis via regular mail and email
  - ix. Comments and responses posted on web channel reports
- b. How we formally or informally reach out to community:
- i. Daily news interaction with general public, public service officials and community leaders
  - ii. Via daily aired news stories soliciting feedback and input
  - iii. Via daily updates to web channel ... 24/7 comments are solicited and received on the webchannel
  - iv. Via reading daily input (comments) made on web channel
  - v. We have a mechanism in place to solicit from every employee daily, their input as to community issues/matters of importance within our communities
- c. How we translate community input into news and public service programming:
- i. News content mirrors and responds to the concerns of/issues within the community
  - ii. Investigative reporters research and provide in-depth reports on issues of concern within the community brought to their attention by the community
  - iii. Public Affairs program (Heartland Focus) regularly has guests representing programs and services addressing community issues and concerns as well as representatives of community events and entertainment
  - iv. Issue-specific Public Affairs campaigns are created as a result of community input

Programming Director furthermore takes community issues and interests into consideration in choosing syndicated programming

RE: Standardized and Enhanced Disclosure Requirements for Television Broadcast License Public Interest Obligations, MM Docket No. 00-168;
Second Periodic Review of the Commission's Rules and Policies Affecting the Conversion To Digital Television, MB Docket No. 03-15.

Dear Ms. Dortch:

Pursuant to section 1.1206 (b)(2) of the Commission's rules, we hereby submit this notice regarding an ex parte meeting in the above-referenced proceedings.

On Wednesday, May 13, 2004, representatives of the Public Interest, Public Airwaves Coalition met with staff members of the FCC's Media Bureau. Attending the meeting were Rick C. Chessen, Mary Beth Murphy, Kim Matthews, and Roger Holberg of the Media Bureau; Gloria Tristani, Managing Director of the Office of Communication of the United Church of Christ, Inc.; Jeff Chester, Executive Director of Center for Digital Democracy; Meredith McGehee, Executive Director of the Alliance for Better Campaigns; and Angela Campbell, director, and James A. Bachtell, staff attorney, of the Institute for Public Representation at Georgetown University Law Center.

The group presented and discussed the attached proposed public interest television disclosure form with the Media Bureau. Members of Public Interest, Public Airwaves Coalition noted that the current issues/programs lists do not provide an effective means for the public to assess licensees' performance. Because the requirement of listing programs "that have provided the station's most significant treatment of community issues" is so vague, these lists lack uniformity and consistency and make it difficult to discern the amount and type of public interest programming a broadcaster carries. They are also inaccessible, available for inspection only at the main studio of the station during normal business hours.

The group noted that its disclosure form proposal, based on comments filed by UCC, et al. in 2000, is standardized and gathers information the public needs to meaningfully evaluate whether licensees are serving their public interest obligations. The form also helps the public determine how broadcasters are using their new digital spectrum. It also accommodates the group's public interest guidelines proposal, gathering the necessary information and placing the certification questions at the end of the form, so they can be incorporated if adopted by the FCC. Members also noted that filing the form with the Commission and placing it on the stations' web sites will give the public greater access to the information.

Members of the Public Interest, Public Airwaves Coalition also presented the proposed disclosure form to Commissioner Michael J. Copps' senior legal advisor Jordon Goldstein, Commissioner Kathleen Q. Abernathy's legal advisor Stacy Robinson Fuller, and distributed copies to the offices of Chairman Michael K. Powell, Commissioner Jonathon Adelstein, and Commissioner Kevin J. Martin.

In accordance with the Commission's rules, this ex parte notice is being filed electronically in the above referenced dockets. If you have any questions regarding this filing, please do not hesitate to contact me at (202) 662-9543.

Respectfully Submitted,

James A. Bachtell

FCC XXX (5/13/04 draft)
Public Interest Television Disclosure Report

Instructions. This report should be prepared on a quarterly basis. The completed form must be made available to the public and the FCC no later than 30 days after the end of the quarter, by 1) placing a copy in the station's public file; 2) posting a copy on the station's website (if it has one), with a prominent and clearly identified link on the home page of the website; and 3) filing it with the FCC.

Definitions for use in filling out this Disclosure Form

Local civic programming: Local civic programming is designed to provide the public with information about local issues. Local civic programming includes broadcasts of interviews with or statements by elected or appointed officials and relevant policy experts on issues of importance to the community, government meetings, legislative sessions, conferences featuring elected officials, and substantive discussions of civic issues of interest to local communities or groups.

Local electoral affairs programming: Local electoral affairs programming consists of candidate-centered discourse focusing on the local, state and United States Congressional races for offices to be elected by a constituency within the licensee's broadcast area. Local electoral affairs programming includes broadcasts of candidate debates, interviews, or statements, as well as substantive discussions of ballot measures that will be put before the voters in a forthcoming election. Programming that focuses on the "horserace" aspects of an election does not qualify as local electoral affairs programming. Programming that is primarily concerned with the political strength or viability of a candidate or ballot issue; that focuses on a candidate or ballot issue's status in relation to polling data, endorsements or fundraising totals; or discusses an election in terms of who is winning or losing is considered "horserace."

Primary Channel: The primary channel means the FCC-required free over-the-air standard channel which, like its analog predecessor, provides entertainment, sports, local and national news, election results, weather advisories, access for candidates and public interest programming such as educational programming for children (see Advanced Television Systems and Their Impact Upon the Existing Television Broadcast Service, Fifth Report and Order, 12 FCC Rcd 12,809, 12820-22 (1997)).

Public Service Announcements: A public service announcement is any announcement for which no consideration of any sort (including, but not limited to, cash, goods or services, in-kind contributions, endorsements, favorable treatment) is made to the licensee or any organization or entity associated with the licensee and which promotes programs, activities or services of federal, state or local governments or the programs, activities or services of nonprofit organizations.

Paid Public Service Announcements: A paid public service announcement is any announcement where consideration of any sort (including, but not limited to, cash, goods or services, in-kind contributions, endorsements, favorable treatment) is made to the licensee or any organization or entity associated with the licensee but which otherwise meets the definition of a public service announcement.

Independent programming: Independent programming is programming produced by an entity not owned or controlled by an owner of a national television network, including ABC, CBS, NBC, FOX, UPN, and WB. If an owner of a national television network owns or controls more than a one-third financial interest in the program, acts as the distributor of such program in syndication, or owns the copyright in such program, the owner of a national television network will be considered to be the producer of that program for the purposes of this processing guideline.
