Dear FCC:

The amount of time the FCC is taking to either approve or deny the xm/sirius merger is absurd. The FCC should be sued for lost monies that would have been saved had this merger been approved within their designated amount of time 180 day review and the shareholders deserve to recoup losses incurred due to the negligence of the FCC.

It is clear without this merger Sirius & Xm will raise monthly prices to $14.99 in order to remain operational. So for anyone to say this merger is not in the best interest of the consumer is bullshit..

FCC needs to act ASAP or I feel both the consumers & shareholders will hold FCC accountable for their negligence in approving or denying this merger in a timely manner. If the FCC continues to hold nonsense meetings with farmers and the like that have no say or business in satellite radio whatsoever a class action lawsuit will be filed on the behalf of the consumer & shareholder.

Sincerely,

Shawn Smith
