Dear FCC:

FCC,

Why does the FCC and Mr. Martin continue to stall the Sirius/XM satellite radio merger after a clear cut Department of Justice approval? Today Mr Martin releases a press statement saying he/FCC might have a merger decision by June 30... Seems to me we have been hearing this same statement for 6-7 months repeated over and over again.. How can the public trust, or put any faith in Mr Martins statements, that have been proven false and misleading several times? Meanwhile 2 satellite radio companies that are struggling to make a profit, are held hostage to an FCC whos agenda has to be questioned, forcing Sirius and XM satellite radio to freeze all future plans going forward.. The record FCC delays hurt satellite radio financially, possibly beyond recovery, which many Americans feel now is intentional, due to the FCC creating such uncertainty, with constant misleading statements to the public of a time table to a satellite radio merger decision... This is an outrage by the FCC, and a complete disregard of any accountability to Sirius,XM, and the American people... Someone in a position of government power needs to listen to the people instead of fighting against what the people want, and hold the FCC accountable for their inaction, for whatever reason it is?

Signed one very disappointed and un-trusting American ...

Sincerely,

Matthew Cerullo
