

To FCC: I am writing in to support the Sirius / XM Merger. The merger has already been determined not to be a monopoly by the DOJ and I believe all XM/Sirius subscribers (including myself) will benefit by receiving more content and pricing options. The DOJ and shareholders of both companies have already agreed on merger. Please add the FCC approval with no deal-breaking restrictions. The new combined company will still have plenty of competition in mobile audio entertainment. In the unlikely event of less content or higher prices post merger, I would have no issue choosing an alternate source. The new company will still have to innovate and compete, even more so with upcoming technologies. I feel the lack of a decision from FCC for well over a year is not serving the public interest. Please approve the merger.
