

I hope that you closely consider the implications of this Proceeding.

As a consumer I feel that this proposed change is not in my best interests. Once the signal carrying content has reached my home I should be the one to decide to use the equipment that I use to play back that content. I pay for TIVO specifically so I can record shows and watch them when I want to. If I don't have that ability then there is a lot of content that I will never see because it doesn't fit into my schedule. That would lead me to consider not paying for premium content at all if I can only watch it when some one else decides it is ok.
