

To begin, what gives the MPAA jurisdiction to control the cable boxes in my home provided by a private company? They have absolutely no affiliation with my local cable company, and therefore should have no right to remotely disable an analog output on my cable box. I think that is reason enough to stop this before it even begins.